FOR A BETTER CITY COUNCIL.

The Municipal Voters' League has issued what was called in political circles "the most vituperative attack in its twenty-seven years' history."

The attack on the council, which eighteen months ago selected the chairmen and the personnel of its working committees free of the league's "executive committee," is in the form of an appeal to voters to organize under its banner for "almost a clean sweep of the council."

The administration of Mayor Thompson, who for five years fought to break the league's dominance over the city council, is unsparingly scored. "Chicago," says the executive committee's statement to the voters, "is passing through the worst of its periodic graft exposures—worse than the memorable explosion before World's Fair days, when seven county commissioners were blown clear to Joliet."

The statement next refers to payment of $3,000,000 to "five political favorites as real estate 'experts,'" the recent European aldermanic junket, the school board scandal and then continues:

"If such performances continue, it is mockery for the citizens to assert that this is a democratic form of government."

"All this could never have happened if the majority of the council had remained faithful and independent, for the council has the power to keep crooks off the school board, to check unlawful and extravagant expenditures and to investigate and discourage illegal acts of administrative appointees."

"But for the last four or five years the council has utterly failed to meet its obligations to the citizens and has been all but eliminated by the city hall machine as an independent factor in the city government."

"The situation demands almost a clean sweep of the council. There are few aldermen worth saving. Some are worse than useless—they are public enemies; they levy tribute on business men who wish to do business legitimately; they obstruct legislation until their demands are satisfied."

DAYLIGHT SAVING.

The following, written by Frank J. Loesch on the daylight saving controversy, is interesting and worthy of consideration:

That there is a growing bitterness against daylight saving time is apparent. If New York financial and commercial interests would drop it the remainder of the country would follow next year.

Irrespective of what New York City does, the inconvenience to masses of people in Chicago might be avoided next year by the city council's amending the present ordinance so that daylight saving hours would begin the Sunday before Memorial day and end the Sunday before Labor day. That would give the summer months for the advanced hour, and it seems to me that is all that ought to be asked by those favorable to the continuance of daylight saving.

It would put the children and all of us back to sun time when playtime is in the main ended.

DEATH OF MICHAEL J. O'MALLEY.

Chicago loses a good citizen in the death of Michael J. O'Malley, for thirty-five years a valued employee of the Chicago postoffice, and much of that time was superintendent of the bureau of second class mail matter.

JAMES M. WHALEN

Mr. O'Malley died at the home of a niece at 5518 Gladys avenue after a short illness. Mr. O'Malley was familiar with nearly every foreign language. During the war he rendered valuable service as a translator. He was born in Worcestershire, Eng., in 1861 and came to the United States when only 9 years old. He is survived by a son, John, and a daughter, Margaret.

Joseph A. Mendel should be elected County Commissioner this fall. He is one of the best men named on either ticket.

JACOB KULP

Head of the Great Investment House of Jacob Kulp & Company.

His many friends said words of welcome when Judge Joseph Sabath with his wife and daughter, Mrs. Stella Grollman, returned to Chicago from a tour of Europe. The judge said he had completely recovered from the breakdown suffered while he was sitting on the bench in the Divorce court.

The north branch of the river smells very bad. So talks on the proposal to fill in the portion of the branch known as the Ogden ditch, will be held in Chicago this fall before the Interstate Commerce Commission.

Re-elect Judge Emanuel Eller to the Municipal Court bench. He has made a good record.

ROBERT M. SWEITZER

Popular County Clerk and Candidate to Succeed Himself.

KING CONSTANTINE ABDICATES THRONE

Greek Revolutionary Movement Threatens Athens—Rebels Land From Ships.

MARTIAL LAW FOR ATHENS

Government Seeks Refuge in Enthronement of Crown Prince—Revolt Cause by Order to Demobilize Troops Left on Island.

London, Sept. 28.—A Central News dispatch from Athens says King Constantine signed an abdication decree without reservation.

A Havas dispatch from Athens says: "The insurgents' officials, who have nine destroyers and naval airplanes, besides two warships, Kilikis and Lemnos, have landed troops at Cape Sounion (on the peninsula south-east of Athens). General Papoulas has been sent to try to stop them. 'Martial law has been proclaimed. 'General Koutzlis induced the garrison here to adhere to the revolutionary movement.'"

Rebels Send Ultimatum. Athens, Sept. 28.—An ultimatum from the warship Jannos, which arrived at Laurium, on the peninsula southeast of Athens, with revolting troops, demanded the dissolution of the national assembly and the formation of a people's cabinet friendly to the entente.

King Constantine before his abdication accepted the resignation of his cabinet, which quickly followed the reception of two ultimatums from the cruiser Laurium.

In accepting the resignation the king said he entirely put aside any idea of resistance, which would bring, as a result, civil war in Greece.

The crown prince has abandoned his proposed journey to Rumania for the royal marriage.

In Grip of Revolt. Paris, Sept. 28.—The Greek revolutionary movement seems to be threatening Athens, and two of the rebel ships had landed troops near the capital, which is under martial law. The government is believed to be intending to seek refuge in the enthronement of Crown Prince George.

Greeks Revolt; King Periled. London, Sept. 28.—The Greek fleet has gone over to revolutionaries, who announce that every officer and member of the crews is wholly with them, according to a Central News dispatch from Athens. The movement, which is headed by Col. Gonatas, is making headway in all directions. The Hellenic cabinet has resigned and martial law is in effect in Athens.

A number of Greek warships and transports manned by revolutionaries have left the island of Mytilene, off the coast of Smyrna, where revolt broke out among the refugee Greek troops, and are proceeding toward Piraeus, the port of Athens, according to messages from authoritative sources received here.

The immediate cause of the revolt was the soldiers' who had been evacuated to Mytilene and Claios. The men wished to keep their rifles as trophies or perhaps for personal protection.

The first intimation the authorities in Athens had of the movement was the appearance of an airplane over the city, which showered pamphlets drawn up in the name of the army and navy and the population of Mytilene demanding the resignation of the government and the abdication of Constantine.

Engagement Broken Off. Copenhagen, Sept. 28.—It is officialy stated that the agreement regarding the engagement between the crown prince of Denmark and Princess Olga of Greece has been broken off.

U. S. WARSHIPS TO CONSTANTINOPLE

Two Divisions of Destroyers Ordered From Norfolk to Turkish Waters.

SIX VESSELS IN A DIVISION

Government Acts Quickly to Protect American Lives and Property in Asia Minor—Will Keep the Dardanelles Open.

Washington, Sept. 28.—The United States government acted quickly to protect American lives and property in Asia Minor.

Two divisions of destroyers, the fastest war craft in the naval service, were ordered dispatched from Norfolk to Constantinople. Ships in the Asiatic area already are on the scene. There are six destroyers to a division.

Their explicit orders are to protect Americans in the danger zone, to succor and to feed them. Whether they go into action, it was announced, rests solely with Admiral Bristol, United States commissioner at Constantinople. It was made plain at both State and Navy departments that there must be no equivocation.

This action followed fast on the turn of events in Greece and Turkey. With the collapse of King Constantine's government in Greece, it was feared that American lives might be endangered there. But instead of being dispatched to Smyrna, where there are thousands of refugees, the destroyers were ordered to Constantinople.

Backs Hughes' Policy. It was admitted that this is a measure to back up the policy enunciated by Secretary of State Hughes that the Turkish waters must be kept open to international commerce.

Secretary Denby announced that the officer in command of the two divisions of destroyers would report to Admiral Bristol direct, who would use the ships as and when he thinks best. The relief supplies that will be rushed to the American refugees are not part of the relief for which an appropriation of $200,000 was voted by congress on the closing day of the session. This fund will be used independently and will be disbursed under the direction and supervision of the secretary of state.

It is planned to start the two divisions within the next 48 hours. The ships that will carry the relief will be selected from 30 destroyers now at Norfolk. They should reach their destination eight days after their departure. The distance is approximately 5,000 miles.

No Government in Asia Minor. The whole situation in Asia Minor was said to be such that this government could not risk the eventualities. The State department let it be known that there is no orderly government and that America must resort to its traditional policy of protecting its nationals.

It was added that no longer will citizens of this country hesitate to appeal to their flag. With world affairs as they are, it was said, the United States has decided that wherever trouble brews she will take care of her nationals and at the same time keep free of the political entanglements.

Specifically, it was explained, the United States has another concern. It is that all of the waters of the world be kept open to her fleet. The sea of Marmora, the Dardanelles and the Bosphorus will be kept open at any cost, it was announced. Without these gateways American shipping will be hopelessly handicapped, it was stated.

DOESN'T WANT TO BE QUEEN

Former Mrs. Leeds Has No Aspirations to Reign on Greek Throne, She Says.

Paris, Sept. 28.—"I have no aspiration to reign upon the throne of Greece. Neither has my husband, who will certainly refuse the throne if it is offered him," declared Princess Christopher, formerly Mrs. William B. Leeds.

"My heart bleeds for my unhappy adopted country," she continued, "but neither Prince Christopher nor myself will return there until the country again becomes normal. It is not true that I gave Greece money to assist the Greeks in the war against the Turks. I was opposed to the war from the start, and so was King Constantine, but Premier Venizelos pushed into it by England, began the war, which my brother-in-law, the king, was forced to continue."

POPE PLEADS FOR PEACE

James M. Whalen, popular, able and honest candidate for trustee of the Sanitary District on the Democratic ticket should receive the vote of every good citizen.
